Accounts from Incomplete Records

11

We have so far studied accounting records of firms, which follow the double entry system of book keeping. This gives us an impression that all business units follow this system. However, in practice, all firms do not maintain accounting records strictly as per the double entry system. Many small size enterprises keep incomplete records of their transactions. But, they also have to ascertain the profit or loss for the year and the financial position of the firm as at the end of the year. This chapter deals with the ascertainment of profit or loss and financial position of the firm that have not been maintaining records as per double entry book-keeping or whose records are otherwise incomplete.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

After studying this chapter, you will be able to :

- state the meaning and features of incomplete records;
- calculate profit or loss using the statement of affairs method;
- distinguish between balance sheet and statement of affairs;
- prepare trading and profit and loss account and balance sheet from incomplete records; and
- detect the missing figures/information by preparing relevant accounts.

11.1 Meaning of Incomplete Records

Accounting records, which are not strictly kept according to double entry system are known as incomplete records. Many authors describe it as single entry system. However, single entry system is a misnomer because there is no such system of maintaining accounting records. It is also not a 'short cut' method as an alternative to double entry system. It is rather a mechanism of maintaining records whereby some transactions are recorded with proper debits and credits while in case of others, either one sided or no entry is made. Normally, under this system records of cash and personal accounts of debtors and creditors are properly maintained, while the information relating to assets, liabilities, expenses and revenues is partially recorded. Hence, these are usually referred as incomplete records.

11.1.1 Features of Incomplete Records

Incomplete records may be due to partial recording of transactions as is the case with small shopkeepers such as grocers and vendors. In case of large sized organisations, the accounting records may be rendered to the state of incompleteness due to natural calamity, theft or fire. The features of incomplete records are as under :

- (a) It is an unsystematic method of recording transactions.
- (b) Generally, records for cash transactions and personal accounts are properly maintained and there is no information regarding revenue and/or gains, expenses and/or losses, assets and liabilities.
- (c) Personal transactions of owners may also be recorded in the cash book.
- (d) Different organisations maintain records according to their convenience and needs, and their accounts are not comparable due to lack of uniformity.
- (e) To ascertain profit or loss or for obtaining any other information, necessary figures can be collected only from the original vouchers such as sales invoice or purchase invoice, etc. Thus, dependence on original vouchers is inevitable.
- (f) The profit or loss for the year cannot be ascertained under this system with high degree of accuracy as only an estimate of the profit earned or loss incurred can be made. The balance sheet also may not reflect the complete and true position of assets and liabilities.

11.2 Reasons of Incompleteness and Its Limitations

It is observed, that many businessmen keep incomplete records because of the following reasons :

- (a) This system can be adopted by people who do not have the proper knowledge of accounting principles;
- (b) It is an inexpensive mode of maintaining records. Cost involved is low as specialised accountants are not appointed by the organisations;
- (c) Time consumed in maintaining records is less as only a few books are maintained; and
- (d) It is a convenient mode of maintaining records as the owner may record only important transactions according to the need of the business.

However, the mechanism of incomplete records suffers from a number of limitations. This is due to the basic nature of this mechanism. Broadly speaking, unless a systematic approach to maintenance of records is followed, reliable financial statements cannot be prepared.

The limitations of incomplete records are as follows :

- (a) As double entry system is not followed, a trial balance cannot be prepared and accuracy of accounts cannot be ensured.
- (b) Correct ascertainment and evaluation of financial result of business operations can not be made.
- (c) Analysis of profitability, liquidity and solvency of the business cannot be done. This may cause a problem in raising funds from outsiders and planning future business activities.
- (d) The owners face great difficulty in filing an insurance claim with an insurance company in case of loss of inventory by fire or theft.
- (e) It becomes difficult to convince the income tax authorities about the reliability of the computed income.

11.3 Ascertainment of Profit or Loss

Every business firm wishes to ascertain the results of its operations to assess its efficiency and success and failures. This gives rise to the need for preparing the financial statements to disclose:

- (a) the profit made or loss sustained by the firm during a given period; and
- (b) the amount of assets and liabilities as at the closing date of the accounting period.

Therefore, the problem faced in this situation is how to use the available information in the incomplete records to ascertain the profit or loss for the particular accounting year and to determine the financial position of a entity as at the end of the year. This can be done in two ways :

1. Preparing the Statement of Affairs as at the beginning and as at the end of the accounting period, called statement of affairs or net worth method.
2. Preparing Trading and Profit and Loss Account and the Balance Sheet by putting the accounting records in proper order, called conversion method.

11.3.1 Preparing Statement of Affairs

Under this method, statement of asset and liabilities as at the beginning and at the end of the relevant accounting period are prepared to ascertain the amount of change in the capital during the period. Such a statement is known as statement of affairs, shows assets on one side and the liabilities on the other just as in case of a balance sheet. The difference between the totals of the two sides (balancing figure) is the capital (refer figure 11.1). Though statement of affairs resembles balance sheet, it is not called a balance sheet because the data is not wholly based on ledger balances. The amount of items like fixed assets, outstanding expenses, bank balances, etc. are ascertained from the relevant documents and physical count.

Statement of Affairs as at —

Liabilities	Amount ₹	Assets	Amount ₹
Bills payable	Land and Building
Creditors	Machinery
Outstanding expenses	Furniture
Capital (balancing figure)*	Stock
		Debtors
		Cash and Bank
		Prepaid expenses
		Capital (balancing figure)*
	XXX X		XXXX

Note: * where the total of liabilities side is more than total of assets side, capital would be shown in assets side and it represents debit balance of capital.

Fig. 11.1 : Format of statement of affairs

Once the amount of capital, both at the beginning and at the end is computed with the help of statement of affairs, a statement of profit and loss is prepared to ascertain the exact amount of profit or loss made during the year. The difference between the opening and closing capital represents its increase or decrease which is to be adjusted for withdrawals made by the owner or any fresh capital introduced by him during the accounting period in order to arrive at the amount of profit or loss made during the period. The statement of profit and loss is prepared as shown in figure 11.2.

Statement of Profit or Loss for the year ended

Particulars		Amount ₹
	Capital as at the end of year (computed from statement of affairs as at the end of year)
Add	Drawings during the year
Less	Additional capital introduced during the year	(....)
	Adjusted capital at the end of year
Less	Capital as at the beginning of year (computed from statement of affairs as at the beginning of year)	(....)
	Profit or Loss made during the year

Fig. 11.2 : Format of statement of profit or loss

If the net result of above computation is a positive amount, it represents the profit earned during the year. In case the net result is a negative amount, it would represent the loss sustained during the year. The same computation can be done in the form of an equation as follows :

$$\text{Profit or Loss} = \text{Capital at end} - \text{Capital at beginning} + \text{Drawings during the year} - \text{Capital introduced during the year.}$$

For example, consider the following information extracted from the records of Ms. Sheetu :

Capital at the beginning of year, i.e. April 01, 2016	1,20,000
Capital at the end of year, i.e. on March 31, 2017	2,00,000
Capital brought in by the proprietor during the year	50,000
Withdrawals by the proprietor during the year	30,000

The profit for the year will be calculated as follows :

The profit earned or loss incurred during a given period will be computed as follows :

Particulars		Amount ₹
	Capital as on March 31, 2017	2,00,000
Add	Drawings during the year	30,000
		2,30,000
Less	Additional capital introduced during the year	(50,000)
	Adjusted capital at the end, i.e. March 31, 2017	1,80,000
Less	Capital in the beginning, i.e. April 01, 2016	(1,20,000)
	Profit made during the year	60,000

Illustration 1

Mr. Mehta started his readymade garments business on April 1, 2016 with a capital of ₹ 50,000. He did not maintain his books according to double entry system. During the year he introduced fresh capital of ₹ 15,000. He withdrew ₹ 10,000 for personal use. On March 31, 2017, his assets and liabilities were as follows :

Total creditors ₹ 90,000 ; Total debtors ₹ 1,25,600 ; Stock ₹ 24,750 ; Cash at bank ₹ 24,980.

Calculate profit or loss made by Mr. Mehta during the first year of his business using the statement of affairs method.

Mrs. Vandana runs a small printing firm. She was maintaining only some records, which she thought, were sufficient to run the business. On April 01, 2016, available information from her records indicated that she had the following assets and liabilities: Printing Press ₹ 5,00,000, Buildings ₹ 2,00,000, Stock ₹ 50,000, Cash at bank ₹ 65,600, Cash in hand ₹ 7,980, Dues from customers ₹ 20,350, Dues to creditors ₹ 75,340 and Outstanding wages ₹ 5,000. She withdrew ₹ 8,000 every month for meeting her personal expenses. She had also introduced ₹ 15,000 during the year as additional capital. On March 31, 2017 her position was as follows :

Press ₹ 5, 25,000, Buildings ₹ 2,00,000, Stock ₹ 55,000, Cash at bank ₹ 40,380, Cash in hand ₹ 15,340, Dues from customers ₹ 17,210, Dues to creditors ₹ 65,680.

11.3.2 Difference between Statement of Affairs and Balance Sheet

Both statement of affairs and balance sheet show the assets and liabilities of a business entity on a particular date. However, there are some fundamental differences between the two. A statement of affairs is prepared from incomplete records where most of the assets are recorded on the basis of estimates as compared to a balance sheet which is prepared from records maintained on the basis of double entry book-keeping and all assets and liabilities can be verified from the ledger accounts. Hence, a balance sheet is more reliable than a statement of affairs. The objective of preparing a statement of affairs is to ascertain the amount of capital account as on that date whereas a balance sheet is prepared to know the financial position of the business at a particular date. In statement of affairs, an item of assets or liabilities may get omitted and this omission may remain unknown because the effect of this omission gets adjusted in the capital account balance and the total of both sides of statement match. However, in case of a balance sheet the possibility of omission of any item is remote because in case of an omission, the balance sheet will not agree and the accountant will trace the missing item from accounting records. These differences have been shown in a tabular form as under :

Basis of difference	Statement of affairs	Balance sheet
Reliability	It is less reliable as it is prepared from incomplete records.	It is more reliable as it is prepared from double entry records.
Objective	The objective of preparing statement of affairs is to estimate the balance in capital account on a particular date.	The objective of preparing balance sheet is to show the true financial position of an entity on a particular date.
Omission	Omission of assets or liabilities cannot be discovered easily.	Omissions of assets or liabilities can be discovered easily and can be traced from accounting records.

Do It Yourself

Identify a small shopkeeper in your locality, ask him about the accounting records maintained by him. If he is not maintaining the records as per double entry system, list the reasons thereof and ask him how does he compute profit or loss.

11.4 Preparing Trading and Profit and Loss Account and the Balance Sheet

To prepare proper trading and profit and loss account and the balance sheet one needs complete information regarding expenses, incomes, assets and liabilities. In case of incomplete records, details of some items like creditors, cash purchases, debtors, cash sales, other cash payments and such receipts are easily available, but there are a number of items the details of which will have to be ascertained in an indirect manner by using the logic of double entry. The most common items that are missing and have to be worked out as such are :

- Opening capital
- Credit purchases
- Credit sales
- Bills payable accepted
- Bills receivable received
- Payments to creditors
- Payments to debtors
- Any other cash/bank related items.

You know that opening capital can be worked out by preparing the statement of affairs at the beginning of the year. For other items we have explained as to how available information can be used to ascertain their missing figures with the help of total debtors and total creditors, total bills receivable and total bills payable accounts and summary of cash.

11.4.1 Ascertaining Credit Purchases

The credit purchases figure is not usually available from the incomplete records. It is quite possible that some other information related to creditors may also be missing. Therefore, by preparing the total creditors account, a proforma of which is given in figure 11.4, credit purchases or any other missing figure related to creditors, as the case may be, can be ascertained as the balancing figure.

Total Creditors Account

Fig. 11.4 : Showing format of creditors account

For example, consider the following transactions relating to M/s Kisan Food Suppliers:

Opening balance of creditors	40,000
Closing balance of creditors	50,000
Payment made in cash	85,000
Discount received	2,000

The total creditors account will be prepared as follows :

	Balance c/d		50,000
			1,37,000				1,37,000

11.4.2 Ascertainment of Credit Sales

The figure of credit sales is also not usually available from incomplete records. Some other information on related to debtors may also be missing. Therefore, if the total debtors account is prepared as shown in figure 11.5, credit sales or any other missing figure, as the case may be, can be traced out as the balancing figure.

Total Debtors Account

Fig. 11.5 : Showing format of debtors account

From the credit sales as ascertained from total debtors account, the sales returns should be deducted from gross credit sales to get net credit sales. For example, the following information is obtained from the books of Mohanlal Traders :

Debtors on April 01, 2016	50,000
Debtors on March 31, 2017	70,000
Cash received from debtors	60,000
Discount allowed	1,000
Bills receivable	30,000
Bad debts	3,000

The total debtors account will be prepared as follows :

Mohan Lal Traders Total Debtors Account

				2017 Mar. 31	Bad debts		3,000
					Balance c/d		70,000
			1,64,000				1,64,000

11.4.3 Ascertainment of Bills Receivable and Bills payable

Quite often, while all details relating to bills receivable and bills payable are available but the figures of the bills received and bills accepted during the year are not given. In such a situation, total bills receivable account and total bills payable account can be prepared and the missing figures ascertained as the balancing figures. The proforma of total bills receivable account and total bills payable account is shown in figure 11.6 and figure 11.7.

For example consider the following data available from the records of M/s S.S. Senapati

Opening bills receivable	5,000
Opening bills payable	37,500
Bills receivable dishonoured	2,000
Bills payable dishonoured	66,750
Closing bills payable	52,500
Bills collected during the year	12,000
Closing bills receivable	4,000

11.4.4 Ascertainment of Missing Information through Summary of Cash

Sometimes, the amount paid to creditors or the amount received from debtors or the opening or closing cash or bank balance may be missing. To ascertain any missing item of receipt or payment, we may prepare a cash book summary showing all receipts and payments during the year and the balancing figure is taken as the amount of missing item.

If however, both amount paid to creditors and that received from debtors are missing, then any one of these may be obtained first through the total creditors or total debtors account, as the case may be, and the other missing information ascertained from the cash book summary in the same way as stated earlier.

After the missing figures have been traced out, the final accounts may be prepared straight away or after the preparation of the trial balance. The components of the trial balance and their sources of information are summarised below :

1.	Closing assets (except stock) and liabilities	Closing list
2.	Opening assets (including opening stock) and liabilities	Opening list
3.	Purchases	Credit purchases from total creditors account and cash purchases from summary of cash
4.	Sales	Credit sales from total debtors account and cash sales from summary of cash
5.	Opening capital	Opening statement of affairs
6.	Expenses and Revenues	As per cash summary of cash plus subsidiary information
7.	Losses and Gains	From all the accounts and scattered information
8.	Bills receivable received	Total bills receivable account
9.	Bills payable accepted	Total bills payable account
10.	Cash/Bank balance	Summary of cash

Closing balance of bills payable	10,200

Solution

Cash sales and cash purchases are available from cash transactions. Credit purchase is also given. But credit sale is to be ascertained by the opening debtors account. Though the credit purchase is available, the closing balance of creditors is not known. That is why the creditors account also has to be opened. As there are bills payable and bills receivable, those accounts also have to be opened, otherwise the creditors and debtors accounts will not be complete.

Key Terms Introduced in the Chapter

- Incomplete records
- Statement of Affairs

Summary with Reference to Learning Objectives

1. Incomplete records : Incomplete records refer to, lack of accounting records according to the double entry system. Degree of incompleteness may vary from highly disorganised records to organised, but still not complete.
2. Difference between statement of affairs and balance sheet : A statement of affairs is a statement showing various assets and liabilities of a firm on date, with difference between the two sides denoting capital. Since, the records are incomplete, the values of assets and liabilities are normally estimates based on information available. They are not the balances taken from properly maintained ledger like in case of balance sheet. The balance sheet is derived from a set of books maintained on the basis of double entry system.

3. Computation of profit and loss from incomplete records : The statement of affairs is used to compute capital when a firm has a highly disorganised set of incomplete records. To the difference between the closing and opening capital, any sum withdrawn from business are added back and any additional capital introduced during the year are deducted to find out profit and loss made for the period.
4. Preparation of profit and loss account and balance sheet : When cash summary of a firm is available along with information about personal accounts of creditors and customers, an attempt can be made to prepare the profit and loss account and balance sheet. Missing figures about purchases, sales, debtors and creditors can be obtained by preparing proforma accounts of debtors, creditors, bills receivable and bills payable using the logic of double entry system. Once a profit and loss account and balance sheet are prepared, it will be possible for the firm to start a complete accounting system for future.

Questions for Practice

Short Answers
