ENGLISH

IV STANDARD

Term I
FOREWORD

The class IV English textbook is designed according to the needs of learners and teachers. All the four basic language skills viz, listening, speaking, reading and writing help the learners to interact with society. Language can be acquired only by usage in day-to-day activities. It is an acquired skill through daily usage/practice.

The content is to hone the language skills that would equip the learner to communicate in English. The text is basically a guideline given to teachers who can generate more activities with creativity and innovation.

Teachers are advised to correlate other fields with the text. There is an additional “Do you know?” section that would kindle the young minds to think beyond the text.

Newspaper, Dictionary and Encyclopedia activities have been included in the text. There is an ORIGAMI activity too! The textbook is prepared with the added aim of providing thought, fun and enjoyment.
DO YOU KNOW?

Animal characters are created in stories to speak which gives life and meaning to the stories. Often they are used to convey moral values.

LITTLE TUPPEN

[ BY PAUL GALDONE ]

Once upon a time, an old hen whose name was Cluck – Cluck and her little chick Tuppen went into the woods. They were busy all day scratching among the leaves finding seeds to eat.

“Be careful,” said Cluck – Cluck. “Eat only the smaller seeds. The big ones may make you cough.”

After a while Little Tuppen tried to eat a big seed. Then he began to cough. Cluck – Cluck in great fright ran to fetch him some water.

She ran to the spring and said, “Dear spring, please give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing”.

“I will give you some water if you bring me a cup”, the spring said. Cluck – Cluck ran to the oak tree. Then she said, “Dear Oak tree, please give me a cup. Then the spring will give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing.”
The oak tree liked Tuppen and wanted to help. It said, “I will give you a cup if someone shakes my branches.”

So Cluck–Cluck ran to the woodcutter’s little boy. “Dear little boy, please shake the oak tree's branches.”

She said, “Then the oak tree will give me a cup and the spring will give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing.”

The little boy said, “If you give me a pair of shoes, I will shake the oak tree’s branches.”

Cluck–Cluck ran to the shoemaker and said, “Dear shoemaker, please give me a pair of shoes for the little boy. Then the little boy will shake the oak tree’s branches and oak tree will give me a cup. Then the Spring will give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing.

The shoemaker said, “Give me some leather. Then I will make a pair of shoes for the little boy.”

Cluck–Cluck knew the cow had some leather. She ran to the cow and said, “Dear cow, please give me some leather. Then the shoemaker will make shoes for the little boy. The little boy will shake the oak tree’s branches. The oak tree will give me a cup and the Spring will give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing.”

“I will give you some leather if you give me some corn”, the cow said.

So Cluck—Cluck ran to the farmer and said, “Dear farmer, please give me some corn for the cow. Then the cow will give me some leather for the shoemaker and the shoemaker will make shoes for the little boy. Then the little boy will shake the oak tree’s branches and the oak tree will give me a cup. Then the Spring will give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing.”

The farmer said, “I need a plough before I give you some corn.”

Then Cluck—Cluck ran to the blacksmith and said, “Dear blacksmith, please give me a plough for the farmer. Then the farmer will give me some corn for the cow. When the cow gets the corn, it will give me some leather for the shoemaker. Then the shoemaker will give me a pair of shoes for the little boy and the little boy will shake the oak tree’s branches. The oak tree will give me a cup and then the Spring will give me some water. Little Tuppen is coughing.”

The blacksmith said to Cluck—Cluck, “I will give you a plough if you give me some iron.”
Cluck—Cluck had heard about some elves who lived under the mountains. The elves had a lot of iron. She told the elves about Little Tuppen and the big seed.

The elves wanted to help. So they brought out a heap of iron for the blacksmith.

Cluck—Cluck brought the iron to the blacksmith. He made a plough for the farmer. The farmer gave some corn for the cow. The cow gave some leather for the shoemaker. Then the shoemaker made a pair of shoes for the little boy. When the little boy got the shoes, he shook the oak tree's branches. Then the oak tree gave Cluck—Cluck a cup and the spring gave some water. Cluck—Cluck gave the water to Little Tuppen.

Little Tuppen drank the water and stopped coughing. He ran chirping and scratching among the leaves as if nothing had happened.

Listening skill:

Listen to the rhyme and repeat it

Old McDonald Had A Farm

Old McDonald had a farm, Eeya Eeya O,
And on his farm he had some chicks, Eeya Eeya O.
With a cluck cluck here and a cluck cluck there,
Here a cluck, there a cluck, everywhere a cluck cluck.
Old McDonald had a farm, Eeya Eeya O.
Old McDonald had a farm, Eeya Eeya O,
And on his farm he had some ducks, Eeya Eeya O.
With a quack quack here and a quack quack there,
Here a quack, there a quack, everywhere a quack quack.
Old McDonald had a farm, Eeya Eeya O.

LIVING TOGETHER

I might have lived inside a shell
If I had been a snail;
Or in a great wide tossing sea
If I had been a whale!

Or in a busy noisy hive,
If I had been born a bee;
Or a bunny in a burrow
Eating lettuce for my tea.

I might have had a kennel home
If I had been a dog;
Or a mud hole in a river bank
Had I been born a frog

I might have been a little bird
And lived inside a nest;
But Oh! I'm glad I'm just a child
I think my home is the best.

ACTIVITY

Form a group of seven of your friends. Let each one pretend to be an animal / insect mentioned in the poem. Now recite the lines:

First the Snail will say
“ I might have lived inside a shell”
Next the whale will say . . . . . . . . . . .

toss - throw lettuce - a green vegetable kennel - a shelter for a dog

Hello friends,

Here I am, to talk about my life. I am writing my autobiography in this last phase of my life. I have no regrets. I have lived my life well.

Are you puzzled? Surely you must know me. You read me for gaining information. I tell you the latest happenings. I brief you with the current news. Everyday, you see me hanging on the street shops. Not a day passes for many people without glancing at me, over their morning cup of coffee. Can you make a guess now. Yes, you are right. I am a NEWSPAPER.

Hmmm….I am wondering where exactly should I begin my story. Life is one long journey. I am made out of paper. It was actually the Chinese who invented the paper some 2000 years ago, from the bark of a tree called “papyrus”. Now I’ve heard that paper is also made from wood pulp or waste wood. The newsprint paper is slightly different.
At the moment, I may look crumpled and rather dirty. But I was smart and crisp and smelt fresh, when I emerged out of the printing machine. The news reporters brought in a lot of articles and hot news. The editors carefully selected and edited some news articles. My great name was in big, bold capitals. Hundreds of people were waiting outside the press to buy me.

I felt very important, since I bring people news of the world. We tell the people what is happening not only in our country India, but in other countries of the world as well.

My companions and I were soon dried and kept arranged. A man soon came and bundled us. He then threw us into a van parked outside the press. We fell down with a “thud” sound. My back ached and some of my friends’ noses were smashed. The driver was in a great hurry to get us to the nearest bus terminal and railway station.

At the railway station, we were thrown into the hands of a young man. He ripped us open and divided us between his companions. He then took a few of us (including myself) in his hands and started walking and shouting at the top of his voice “Paper! paper!”

- crumpled — uneven, not smooth
- emerge — to come out
- ached — pained
- smashed — damaged
- ripped — cut or torn
- companions — friends
A young girl's head popped out of the train. She bought me. She took me with her and started reading me. She flipped through the main pages and moved on to the Advertisement Section called as the “Classified Ads”. She carefully and slowly read the “Wanted” columns for employment. Later on I learnt that her name is Meena.

Meena then took me to her house and put me on the small writing table. Her father eagerly took me and spent a great deal of time with me. He gently turned the pages. The news about the election in the front page seemed to attract him and so he kept on reading the front page for some more time. Suddenly a voice called him from the kitchen. It was Meena’s mother. Father dropped me on the table and went off.

Suddenly I felt a hand grabbing me rudely. It was Mohan, Meena’s younger brother. Mohan was interested only in the Sports page. Some news about Cricket made him angry, and so he tossed me on to the table with great force.

Meena’s mother read me much later, after everyone left home. She flipped through the pages and started showing interest in the “Entertainment page”. The house became quiet and peaceful. Tired of the turning and tussling, I wanted to take rest. But alas! The kitten came and leapt on me. She scratched me all over my face and started playing with me.

“Help! Help!”, I shouted at the top of my voice. Mother took pity on me. She put me safe on a shelf reserved for us. At last I was left in peace.

The next morning, my new friend, a fresh newspaper arrived. He went through the same ordeal as myself.
Before twenty years, we were reigning supreme. Now the times have changed. Most of the people do not have the time to read us. Mass media like television and internet have invaded the world. Anyway, dear child, thank you for reading about me. Bye.

reigning - ruling, dominating

Autobiography of a doll

I was born in a huge factory where many others like me were also born. We were all carefully packed in beautiful boxes. Then we were put in a truck and carried off to a toy shop. The shopkeeper arranged my friends and me on the shelf. To my expectation a cute little girl who looked like a princess pointed at me. I was brought down from the shelf. She took me home and played with me. She stitched me a pretty frock and gave me a new look. I was given a place in her bed. I was introduced to all her friends. They also played with me. Very soon I became their playmate.

Answer the following:
1. How was the doll packed?
2. What made the doll look so pretty?
3. Where was the doll carried to?
4. Who took it home?

Hello! I am a mobile phone. I was made in a factory in China. My name is Tomsung! I had a few friends before I was sold. The buyer chose me because of my features. He kept me near his heart in his shirt pocket. My story came to an end when I was dropped in a jug of juice in a marriage party.
Engineers tried to help me. Even the juice was not tasty. Anyway, now I play with children. They use me as a toy. I am happier now.

POEM
PAPER BOATS

Day by day I float my paper boats
one by one down the running stream.
In big black letters I write my name on them and the name of the village where I live.
I hope that someone in some strange land will find them and know who I am.
I load my little boats with shiuli flower from our garden,
and hope that these blooms of the dawn
will be carried safely to land in the night.
I launch my paper boats and look up into the sky and see the little clouds setting their white bulging sails.
I know not what playmate of mine in the sky sends them down the air to race with my boats!
When night comes I bury my face in my arms and dream that my paper boats float on and on under the midnight stars.
The fairies of sleep are sailing in them, and the lading in their baskets full of dreams.

- Rabindranath Tagore

Glossary
stream – a small narrow river launch – afloat, especially by sliding into water fairies – small imaginary beings of human form that have magical powers lading – loading
shiuli – a flower in Bengal

DO YOU KNOW?

Thinking of spending a weekend out of town?
Need some peace and quiet?
Head to Yelagiri hills in Tamilnadu.

The Yelagiri hills is located at an altitude of 1410 metres above sea level in Vellore district.

SAY “YES” TO YELAGIRI

All the hill stations are perched upon hills- Ooty on the Blue Mountains, Kodaikanal on the Palani hills and Yercaud on the Shervarays.

Ooty is known as “the Queen of hill stations.” These hill stations are famous for their parks, tea, coffee, spices and honey.

“It's a beautiful day to go camping,” Priya said as she stepped into her school bus. “Is everyone in?”, questioned their teacher. “We are all ready to go Madam,” replied Raja. “Waiting to leave since daybreak” added Ramya.

“That's great! I'm glad we have planned so carefully for this trip. The tent is ready to be put up as soon as we reach our campsite.”

They left their school campus around 7:00 am and reached Vaniyambadi village after three hours. Further down was the next village Ponneri at the foothills of Yelagiri.
The bus wound its way up the hill traversing sharp curves. Eucalyptus trees soared up to the sky, now and then a Gulmohur tree with its red crown caught their attention. “Look at the beehives, Madam,” shouted Priya. Inverted D-shaped hives, some black and others brown of rich honey hung from the branches of the trees. Zooming around the fourteen hairpin bends was great fun. Along with the birds the children sang ........

It's a beautiful day for a picnic,
Come on! Let's eat our nic-nac,
It's a magical place for the week-end,
And Yelagiri is the new trend.

On the way up the hill they stopped twice, first at the telescope house to get a full view of the Yelagiri hills and next at the Jalampuri waterfalls. Very soon they reached the campsite and enjoyed setting up their tents. After some stretching and refreshing they went trekking to Swami Malai which is the highest peak in the Yelagiri range of hills.

Huge rocks and lush green bushes in different shades of green were on either side. Wild flowers, insects and colourful butterflies filled the air. “We are in a real jungle,” exclaimed Raja. Taking deep breaths and sipping water they reached the top, from there the villages and everything looked so small.

Meanwhile, at the campsite three uninvited guests, had arrived, a mother monkey and her two little ones. The little ones made a loud noise by banging the cooking pans and pots.

“Oh! I'm so frightened of monkeys. Are all our bags and baggage safe?” asked Raja.

“I knew I should have stayed home,” added Ramya. “Shh!” warned their teacher. “They'll leave soon, don't worry,” she encouraged.

“I have to do something,” their teacher thought to herself. She noticed a pail of water near the firewood and it gave her an idea.

While the class watched anxiously their teacher quietly crawled out of the bush she went straight to the pail of water. S-P-L-A-S-H! This sudden shower scared them away. They ran quickly into the thick woods. “Hurrah!” cheered the class with relief. That night they enjoyed their dinner and slept peacefully.

The sweet smell of nature and the song of birds woke the class the next morning. After packing some sandwiches and juice, they took a long walk, through the market place and reached the Punganur lake where they enjoyed a boat ride.

A small park next to the lake was suitable for a mini-picnic. After lunch they played on the swings and slides while their teacher bought a bottle of honey. That evening at the campsite, the surprise announcement came from their teacher “Class, its time for a campfire.” The children put logs of wood together and built a huge campfire. They had dinner around it dancing, singing and clapping their hands. The next morning the children dragged their feet towards their bus. Their teacher said, “Come on! Cheer up! All good things come to an end”. As they traversed down the hill, the children felt that the calm and peaceful surroundings should not be disturbed. They wished Yelagiri remained as natural as ever.

Grammar: Adjectives

Words that are used to describe a noun or pronoun are called adjectives.

For example:

a. Rupal has curly hair.
b. Rohit has bought a new motorcycle.

Curly describes Rupal's hair and new describes Rohit's motorcycle. So the words curly and new are adjectives.

You have come across many adjectives in this lesson. An adjective as you know is a word that describes a noun. Make a list of ten such words that are found in the text.
Adjectives - Degrees of Comparison

Adjectives change in form to show comparison. These forms are called degrees of comparison. There are three degrees of comparison.

The positive degree of an adjective is the simplest form of the adjective. No comparison is made in the positive degree.

Examples: a tall girl, a muddy field, a beautiful rose

The comparative degree is used when we compare two people or things. We add er to most adjectives to form their comparative degree. However, for longer words we write more before the adjective.

Examples: a taller girl, a muddier field, a more beautiful rose

The superlative degree is the highest degree of quality. It is used when we compare more than two people or things. It is formed by adding est to the adjective or writing most before the adjective.

Examples: the tallest girl, the muddiest field, the most beautiful rose

Things to Remember

The degree of some adjectives can be changed by adding er or est without changing their spelling.

Examples: sweet - sweeter - sweetest, small - smaller - smallest

If the adjective ends in e, drop the e and add er or est.

Examples: large - larger - largest, safe - safer - safest
If the adjective ends in y and there is a consonant before y, the y changes to i before adding er or est.

Examples: heavy - heavier - heaviest, easy - easier - easiest

In some adjectives the last letter is doubled before adding er or est.

Examples: big - bigger - biggest, thin - thinner - thinnest

The comparative degree of adjectives of two syllables or more is formed by adding more and their superlative degree is formed by adding most.

Examples: honest - more honest - most honest, beautiful - more beautiful - most beautiful

The positive, comparative and superlative degrees of some adjectives are completely different from each other.

Examples: good - better - best, bad - worse - worst, little - less - least

Eg: Go home. Walk carefully. don't pluck flowers. Please, give me some money.

A sentence which gives a command, request or a wish is an Imperative sentence.

What an exciting over by M.S.Dhoni!

A sentence which has strong feeling of surprise, wonder, pity or joy is an Exclamatory sentence (!).

Find out whether the following statements are Imperative or Exclamatory. (The punctuation mark for an Exclamatory sentence !)

1. “What a surprise to see our CM today”

2. “Class, it's time now for a camp fire, get ready”

3. “Oh no, the monkeys are inside our tents”

4. The newspaper is on the left on the table. Read it

5. How majestic the mountains look

(D) Subject & Predicate.

Eg: Tom and Jerry were chasing each other.

A sentence has two parts; a subject and a predicate.

⇒ Here “Tom and Jerry” is the Subject, which can be a person, place, animal or a thing (singular / plural).

⇒ “Were chasing each other” is called as the Predicate, which speaks more about the subject. A predicate always contains a verb form
1. Match the subject with the predicate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SUBJECT</th>
<th>PREDICATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Chimpanzees</td>
<td>read the newspaper late in the afternoon.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meena's mom</td>
<td>warned the students to be careful.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The teacher</td>
<td>is the best suited place for our picnic.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grandma</td>
<td>asked for a piece of leather.</td>
