

Difference between Objective and Subjective is explained here in detail.

Whenever the statement can be debated, whenever the observations or assessments are laced with personal interpretations and not based on facts, then one can say that the statement is subjective in nature.

Objective means making an unbiased, balanced observation based on facts which can be verified. A statement or assessment is said to be objective when it can be verified and it does not have any interpretations based on emotions of a person.

The major differences between Objective and Subjective are:

Objective	Subjective
Objective means making an unbiased,	Subjective means making assumptions, balanced observation based on facts which can be verified.	making interpretations based on personal opinions without any verifiable facts.

Objective observations or assessments can be used before arriving at any decisions.	Subjective observations or information should not be used while taking any important decisions.
Objective information can be found in Scientific journals, research papers, textbooks, news reporting, encyclopedias etc.	Subjective observations can be found in biographies, blogs, editorials of newspapers etc.
An Objective observation or assessment is made after necessary information is verified	A Subjective assessment is made without verifying the necessary information.
