26. A) Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow the passage.

Rabindranath Tagore on the evils of exclusive nationalism
 ...where the spirit of the Western nationalism prevails, the whole people is being taught from boyhood to foster hatreds and ambitions by all kinds of means -- by the manufacture of half-truths and untruths in history, by persistent misrepresentation of other races and the culture of unfavourable sentiments towards them...Never think for a moment that the hurt you inflict upon other races will not infect you, or that the enmities you sow around your homes will be a wall of protection to you for all time to come? To imbue the minds of a whole people with an abnormal vanity of its own superiority, to teach it to take pride in its moral callousness and ill-begotten wealth, to perpetuate humiliation of defeated nations by exhibiting trophies won from war, and using these schools in order to breed in children's minds contempt for others, is imitating the West where she has a festering sore...

- i) A state-nation allows for which of the following-(appl)

26. B) Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow the passage.

We don't have to do anything to be born into a community - in fact, no one has any choice about which family or community or country they are born into. These kinds of identities are called 'ascriptive' - that is, they are determined by the accidents of birth and do not involve any choice on the part of the individuals concerned. It is an odd fact of social life that people feel a deep sense of security and satisfaction in belonging to communities in which their membership is entirely accidental. We often identify so strongly with communities we have done nothing to 'deserve' - passed no exam, demonstrated no skill or competence... This is very unlike belonging to, say, a profession or team. Doctors or architects have to pass exams and demonstrate their competence. (app)

- i) Most ascriptive identities are accidental and _____.
- a) Conditional
 - b) Unconditional 1
 - c) Achieved
 - d) Temporary
- ii) Everyone has a motherland, a mother tongue, a family, a faith...This signifies another feature of community identity i.e.

27. A) Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow the passage.

How were labourers recruited?

Tea industry began in India in 1851. Most of the tea gardens were situated in Assam. In 1903, the industry employed 4,79,000 permanent and 93,000 temporary employees. Since Assam was sparsely populated and the tea plantations were often located on uninhabited hillsides, bulk of the sorely needed labour had to be imported from other provinces. But to bring thousands of people every year from their far-off homes into strange lands, possessing an unhealthy climate and infected with strange fevers, required the provision of financial and other incentives, which the tea-planters of Assam were unwilling to offer. Instead, they had recourse to fraud and coercion; and they persuaded the government to aid and abet them in this unholy task by passing penal laws. ... The recruitment of labourers for tea gardens of Assam was carried on for years mostly by contractors under the provisions of the Transport of Native Labourers Act (No. III) of Bengal as amended in 1865, 1870 and 1873.

- i) The planters were fully aware that the laws of a colonised country did not have to stick to the _____ norms that the British back home had to follow in Britain.
- a) Democratic 1
 - b) Autocratic
 - c) Exclusionary

27. B) Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow the passage.

Urban luxury manufactures like the high-quality silks and cottons of Dacca or Murshidabad must have been hit first by the almost simultaneous collapse of indigeneous court demand and the external market on which these had largely depended. Village crafts in the interior, and particularly, in regions other than eastern India where British penetration was earliest and deepest, probably survived much longer, coming to be seriously affected only with the spread of railways. (Sarkar 1983: 29)

In India the impact of British industrialisation led to _____ in some sectors.

- a) Progress
- b) De-industrialisation 1
- c) Urbanisation
- d) De-urbanisation

As a result of British penetration, village artisans abandoned their hereditary craft in favour of _____.

Traditional exports of cotton and silk manufactures from India declined in the face of _____ competition.

- a) American
- b) Chinese 1
- c) Korean
- d) Manchester

During colonial rule in India, cities like _____ declined.

- a) Mumbai and Kolkata
- b) Kolkata and Chennai 1
- c) Chennai and Surat

d) Surat and Masulipatnam

28. A) What are the reasons that can be attributed to caste system becoming invisible for the upper classes, in the contemporary period? (KNOW)
- Upper caste elite were able to benefit from subsidised public education, especially professional education.
 - took advantage of the expansion of state sector jobs in the early decades after Independence.
 - This lead over the rest of society (in terms of education) ensured that they did not face any serious competition. As their privileged status got consolidated in the second and third generations, these groups believed that caste played no role in their advancement.
 - For the third generations from these groups their economic and educational capital is sufficient to ensure that they will get the best in terms of life chances.
- OR
28. B) How can we say that adivasis were not always the oppressed groups?
- there were several Gond kingdoms in Central India such as that of Garha Mandla, or Chanda.
 - Many of the so-called Rajput kingdoms of central and western India actually emerged through a process of stratification among adivasi communities themselves.
 - adivasis often exercised dominance over the plains people through their capacity to raid them, and through their services as local militias.
 - They also occupied a special trade niche, trading forest produce, salt and elephants.
29. Express the correlation between agricultural productivity and agrarian structure. (Create)
- There is a direct correspondence between agricultural productivity and the agrarian structure.
- In areas of assured irrigation, those with plentiful rainfall or artificial irrigation works (such as rice-growing regions in river deltas, for instance the Kaveri basin in Tamil Nadu) more labour was needed for intensive cultivation.
 - Here the most unequal agrarian structures developed.
 - The agrarian structure of these regions was characterised by a large proportion of landless labourers, who were often 'bonded' workers belonging to the lowest castes.
30. Critically examine the concept of Sanskritisation. (KNOWL)
- No structural change only positional change for some individuals.
 - Assumption of upper castes as being superior hence to be imitated.
 - Justification of the practice of inequality and exclusion as marks of privileges of upper castes hence are discriminatory.
 - Adoption of higher caste rituals and beliefs which are discriminatory in nature.
 - Adopting dowry practices instead of bride price.
 - Erosion of dalit culture.
- (any 4)
31. Highlight the sources of conflict between national development and tribal development. (Know)
- Tribes have paid disproportionate price for the development of the rest of the Indian society
 - national developments started in Nehruvian era involving the building of large dams, factories and mines were undertaken at the cost of dispossessing tribes of their land.
 - the loss of forests, community based collective ownership on which tribal communities depended has been a major blow
 - heavy immigration of non-tribals threaten to disrupt their culture
32. How does circulation of labour lead to footloose labour?(App)
- commercialization of agriculture led to the growth of migrant agricultural labour that circulated between their home villages and more prosperous areas.
 - Migrants were more easily exploited by the wealthy farmers and were usually not paid the minimum wages.
 - These migrant workers were terms as 'footloose labour' by Jan Breman.
 - Migration and lack of job security have created very poor working and living conditions for these workers.

SECTION-D

33. A)

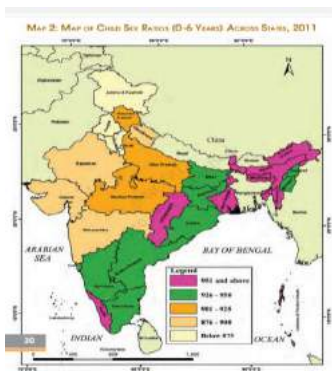

What does the bulge in the above given population pyramid indicate? The bias towards younger age groups in the age structure is believed to be an advantage for India. Explain. (APP)

- The bulge in the middle age group indicates that majority of Indians belong to the working population providing the opportunity called demographic dividend.
- The average age is also less than that of most other countries thus the changing age structure could offer a demographic dividend for India.
- Thus, the dependency ratio is low and provides the opportunity for economic growth.
- This dividend arises from the fact that the current generation of working age people is relatively large and it has only a relatively small preceding generation of old people to support.
- This potential can be converted into actual growth with the increased level of education and employment.
- Thus, these benefits have to be utilised through planned development. (Elaborate on the points)

OR

33. B)

Express the reasons for the regional pattern of low child sex ratio in India.

- The regional pattern of low child sex ratios in India, is that the lowest child sex ratios are found in the most prosperous regions of India.
- Punjab, Harayana, Chandigarh, Delhi, Gujarat and Maharashtra are among the richest states in India in terms of per capita income, and they are the states with the lowest child sex ratio.
- So, the problem of selective abortion is not due to poverty or ignorance or lack of resources.
- For example, if practices like dowry mean that parents have to make large dowry payments to marry off their daughters, then prosperous parents would be the ones most able to afford this.
- Economically prosperous families decide to have fewer children and they may wish to choose the sex of their child.
- This becomes possible by misusing pre-natal diagnostic technique. (Elaborate on the points)

34. Elaborate the changes brought about in the Indian industry due to the impact of globalisation and liberalisation. (KNOW)

- the government has followed a policy of liberalization since the 1990s
- private companies especially foreign forms are encouraged to invest in sectors earlier reserved for the government including telecom civil aviation etc.
- licenses are no longer required to open industries
- many Indian companies have been brought over by MNCs
- government is following the policy of disinvestment and outsourcing
- liberalisation and privatisation is associated with rising income inequality (Elaborate on the points)

35. Chipko Movement

The unusually heavy monsoon of 1970 precipitated the most devastating flood in living memory. In the Alaknanda valley, water inundated 100 square kilometres of land, washed away 6 metal bridges and 10 kilometres of motor roads, 24 buses and several other vehicles; 366 houses collapsed and 500 acres of standing paddy crops were destroyed. The loss of human and bovine life was considerable. ...The 1970 floods mark a turning-point in the ecological history of the region. Villagers, who bore the brunt of the damage, were beginning to perceive the hitherto tenuous links between deforestation, landslides and floods. It was observed that some of the villages most affected by landslides lay directly below forests where felling operations had taken place.... ...The villagers' cause was taken up by the Dashauli Gram Swaraja Sangh (DGSS), a cooperative organisation based in Chamoli district. ...Despite these early protests, the government went ahead with the yearly auction of forests in November. One of the plots scheduled to be assigned was the Reni forest.... ...The contractors' men who were travelling to Reni from Joshimath stopped the bus shortly before Reni. Skirting the village, they made for the forest. A small girl who spied the workers with their implements rushed to Gaura Devi, the head of the village Mahila Mandal (Women's Club). Gaura Devi quickly mobilised the other housewives and went to the forest. Pleading with the labourers not to start felling operations, the women initially met with abuse and threats. When the women refused to budge, the men were eventually forced to retire.

Is this social movement raising 'old' or 'new' issues? Substantiate your answer with one reason.

- Chipko movement raises both old issues along lines of class-based inequality. The conflict placed the livelihood of villagers against government's desire to generate revenues from selling timber.
- This also raises new issue of environmental destruction and the loss of ecological wealth.

How was the economy of subsistence pitted against the economy of profit?

When government forest contractors came to cut down the trees, villagers, including large number of women, stepped forward to hug the trees to prevent their being felled. At stake was the question of villagers' subsistence. All of them relied on the forest to get firewood, fodder and other daily necessities. This conflict placed the livelihood needs of poor villagers against the government's desire to generate revenues from selling timber. The economy of subsistence was pitted against the economy of profit.
