Tea is an evergreen shrub. The word 'evergreen' means that old leaves remain on the shrub, while new ones come out. There is no drying or falling of leaves as in the case of other trees and plants. In a wild state, the plant grows to an enormous height ranging from twenty five to thirty feet. But under cultivation it is not allowed to grow higher than four or five feet. The leaves of the plant are one of two inches in length. Their colour is green and shape oval.

The tea plant grows best of all, in places where there is plenty of rain as well as sunshine. It is abundantly grown in Japan, China, Sri Lanka, Assam and Darjeeling. Tea does not grow in cold countries. Hence there are no tea plantations in Europe, though it is a favourite beverage there.

(ii) Why are there no tea plantations in Europe ?
