I. A Baker from Goa

Oral Comprehension Check (Page 86)

Question 1:

What are the elders in Goa nostalgic about?

Answer:

The elders in Goa are nostalgic about the good old Portuguese days and their love for the famous bread and loaves. The writer also mentions that although the eaters of loaves have vanished, but the makers still do exist.

Question 2:

Is bread-making still popular in Goa? How do you know?

Answer:

Yes, bread-making is still popular in Goa. It is evident from the fact when the narrator states that the eaters have gone away, but the makers still exist. The presence of the mixers, moulders and the ones who bake the loaves and the time tested furnaces are a proof of their existence.

Question 3:

What is the baker called?

Answer:

A baker is popularly known as a pader in Goa.

Question 4:

When would the baker come everyday? Why did the children run to meet him?

Answer:

The baker would come twice everyday—once he would set out early in the morning and the second time when he returned after emptying his huge basket by selling all his bread.

The children would run to meet him as they loved to eat loaves and longed to have bread-bangles which they chose carefully. Sometimes it was sweet bread of special make.

Oral Comprehension Check (Page 87)

Question 1:

Match the following. What is a must

(i) as marriage gifts?

– cakes and bolinhas

- (ii) for a party or a feast? – sweet bread called bol
- (iii) for a daughter's engagement? – bread
- (iv) for Christmas? – sandwiches

Answer:

- (i) as marriage gifts? – sweet bread called bol
- (ii) for a party or a feast? – bread
- (iii) for a daughter's engagement? – sandwiches
- (iv) for Christmas? – cakes and bolinhas

Question 2:

What did the bakers wear: (i) in the Portuguese days? (ii) when the author was young?

Answer:

- (i) In the Portuguese days, the bakers were usually dressed up in a peculiar dress known as the kabai. It was a single-piece long frock reaching down to the knees.
- (ii) During the author's childhood days, he saw the bakers wearing a shirt and trousers which were shorter than full-length ones and longer than half pants.

Question 3:

Who invites the comment – “he is dressed like a pader”? Why?

Answer:

Any person who wears a half-pant that reaches just below the knees invites this comment— “he is dressed like a pader”. This is because the baker who is popularly known as a pader in Goa, used to dress in a similar fashion.

Question 4:

Where were the monthly accounts of the baker recorded?

Answer:

The bakers usually collected their bills at the end of the month and their monthly accounts were recorded on some wall in the house with a pencil.

Question 5:

What does a ‘jackfruit-like appearance’ mean?

Answer:

A ‘jackfruit-like appearance’ means a plump physique. A baker used to resemble such a physique since it was believed that he and his family never starved. Baking was a lucrative profession and the baker, his family and his servants always looked happy and prosperous with their physical appearance.

Thinking about the Text (Page 88)

Question 1:

Writing (Page 88-89)

Question I:

In this extract, the author talks about traditional bread-baking during his childhood days. Complete the following table with the help of the clues on the left. Then write a paragraph about the author's childhood days.

| Clues | Author's childhood days |
|------------------------------|-------------------------|
| the way bread was baked | |
| the way the pader sold bread | |
| what the pader wore | |
| when the pader was paid | |
| how the pader looked | |

Answer:

| Clues | Author's childhood days |
|------------------------------|---|
| the way bread was baked | The bakers used to bake loaves in the mixers and moulders on age-old, time-tested furnaces that were never extinguished. |
| the way the pader sold bread | The baker made his musical entry on the scene with the 'jhang, jhang' sound of his specially made bamboo staff. One hand supported the basket on his head and the other banged the bamboo on the ground. |
| what the pader wore | The baker or bread-seller of those days had a peculiar dress known as the kabai . It was a single-piece long frock reaching down to the knees. In his childhood, he saw bakers wearing a shirt and trousers which were shorter than full-length ones and longer than half pants. |
| when the pader was paid | The baker usually collected his bills at the end of the month. Monthly accounts used to be recorded on some wall in pencil. |
| how the pader looked | The baker used to have a plump physique with a jackfruit-like physical appearance. |

Question II:

1. Compare the piece from the text (on the left below) with the other piece on Goan bakers (on the right). What makes the two texts so different? Are the facts the same? Do both writers give you a picture of the baker?

|---|--|
| Our elders are often heard reminiscing nostalgically about those good old Portuguese days, the Portuguese and their famous loaves of bread. Those eaters of loaves might have vanished but the makers are still there. We still have amongst us the mixers, the moulders and those who bake the loaves. Those age-old, time-tested furnaces still exist. The fire in the furnaces had not yet been extinguished. The thud and the jingle of the traditional baker's bamboo, heralding his arrival in the morning, can still be heard in some places. May be the father is not alive but the son still carries on the family profession. | After Goa's liberation, people used to say nostalgically that the Portuguese bread vanished with the paders. But the paders have managed to survive because they have perfected the art of door-to-door delivery service. The paders pick up the knowledge of bread-making from traditions in the family. The leavened, oven-baked bread is a gift of the Portuguese to India. [Adapted from Nandakumar Kamat's 'The Unsung Lives of Goan Paders'] |
|---|--|

Answer:

Both the texts are more or less similar with the context that knowledge of bread-making flows down in the family like a tradition. Both the writers give a brief overview of a baker's work. They have also mentioned how there are some children of bakers who work hard and follow the footsteps of their respective parents to keep the family profession alive.

1. Now find a travel brochure about a place you have visited. Look at the description in the brochure. Then write your own account, adding details from your own experience, to give the reader a picture of the place, rather than an impersonal, factual description.

Answer:

Activity to be done by yourself.

(Note: Students can write about their personal experiences for this question.)

Group Discussion (Page 89)

Question 1:

In groups, collect information on how bakeries bake bread now and how the process has changed over time.

Answer:

II. Coorg

Thinking about the Text (Page 92-93)

Question 1:

Where is Coorg?

Answer:

Coorg or Kodagu is the smallest district of Karnataka that is located midway between Mysore and Mangalore.

Question 2:

What is the story about the Kodavu people's descent?

Answer:

The fiercely independent people of Coorg are believed to be the descendants of Greek or Arabic origin. As the story goes, a section of Alexander's army moved south along the coast and settled there when they could not return to their country. These people married amongst the locals and their culture is apparent in the martial traditions, marriage and religious rites, which are distinct from the Hindu mainstream. This is the beautiful story about the Kodavu people's descent.

Question 3:

What are some of the things you now know about

- (ii) the main crop of Coorg?
- (iii) the sports it offers to tourists?
- (iv) the animals you are likely to see in Coorg?
- (v) its distance from Bangalore, and how to get there?

Answer:

- (i) The Coorgi or Kodagu people are fiercely independent people comprising martial men and beautiful women who are believed to have descended from the Greeks or the Arabs. They have a strong tradition of hospitality and they are more than willing to recount numerous tales of bravery that are related to the men of this region. As a matter of fact, the Kodavus are the only people in India who are permitted to carry firearms without a licence.
- (ii) Coffee is the main crop of Coorg. The air breathes of invigorating coffee. Coffee estates and colonial bungalows stand tucked under tree canopies in prime corners of the town.
- (iii) Coorg offers a variety of high-energy adventure sports that include river rafting, canoeing, rappelling, rock climbing, mountain biking and trekking.
- (iv) The animals that you are likely to see in Coorg include Macaques, Malabar squirrel, langurs, slender loris, wild elephants, etc. You can also see birds, bees and butterflies giving you company around the corner.
- (v) By road, Coorg is around 250 – 260 kilometres from Bangalore and there are two routes to reach there. One route is via Mysore, which is the most frequented one. The other route is via Neelamangal, Kunigal, Chanrayanapatna.

Question 4:

Speaking and Writing (Page 97-98)

Question 1:

Read the following passage about tea.

India and tea are so intertwined together that life without the brew is unimaginable. Tea entered our life only in the mid-nineteenth century when the British started plantations in Assam and Darjeeling! In the beginning though, Indians shunned the drink as they thought it was a poison that led to umpteen diseases. Ironically, tea colonised Britain where it became a part of their social diary and also led to the establishment of numerous tea houses.

Today, scientific research across the world has attempted to establish the beneficial qualities of tea — a fact the Japanese and the Chinese knew anyway from ancient times, attributing to it numerous medicinal properties.

[Source: 'History: Tea Anytime' by Ranjit Biswas from Literary Review, The Hindu, 1 October 2006]

Collect information about tea, e.g. its evolution as a drink, its beneficial qualities. You can consult an encyclopedia or visit Internet websites. Then form groups of five and play the following roles: Imagine a meeting of a tea planter, a sales agent, a tea lover (consumer), a physician and a tea-shop owner. Each person in the group has to put forward his/her views about tea. You may use the following words and phrases.

- I feel ...
- It is important to know ...
- I disagree with you ...
- I think that tea ...

- I would like you to know ...
- It is my feeling ...
- May I know why you ...
