

INET 2022 Eligibility Criteria

The Indian Navy is a well-organized and balanced three-dimensional force that protects the country's national security. They work below, on, and above the ocean's surface. This is one of the most prestigious professions in our nation, and many people aspire to it.

INET is held for the various branches of the Indian Navy's PSC (Permanent Service Commission) and SSC (Short Service Commission). It is vital to check the eligibility requirements before applying for the examination since it is critical to understand what qualifications are required to qualify for the INET 2021 examination. Both male and female applicants are eligible to apply for the INET 2022 examination, although there are a few positions for which female candidates are not eligible. In this post, you will learn about the qualifying requirements for taking the INET 2022 exam.

Note- The official notification for INET 2022 is expected to be released in November 2022. Given below are the eligibility criteria based on the previous years.

Apart from the exam for recruitment in the Indian Navy, there are other Government Examinations conducted in the country. Candidates can get the desired information about the same in the linked article.
