It is a Latin term that means 'on equal footing' or 'ranking equally'. It is an important clause for creditors of a company in financial difficulty which might become insolvent.

If the company's debts are pari passu, they are all ranked equally, so the company pays each creditor the same amount in insolvency.

In such an act, no one is responsible for the inevitable accidents.

Actus Non Facit Reum Nisi Mens Sit Rea

It states that merely an act does not make anyone guilty unless there is a criminal intent or a guilty mind. For any act to be punishable, it must be done with a guilty mind. Thus, to convict the defendant, it must be proved that the criminal act was carried out with a criminal intent.

De Minimis Lex Non Curat

A common law principle whereby the judges will not sit in the judgment of extremely minor transgressions of the law. The principle that the law is not concerned with insignificant or minor matters.

Audi Alterem Partem

It states that no person shall be condemned, punished by a law court without being heard. It is a principle of natural justice that both parties to a case shall be heard appropriately before passing any coming to the decision or passing any order.

Bona Vacantia

'Bona Vacantia' is a legal concept associated with the property that has no owner. It exists in various jurisdictions but with origins mostly in English law.

Material substance (such as the body of the victim of a murder) upon which a crime has been committed.
